

FAILS TO POINT OUT MRS. BOTKIN

Important State Witness Cannot Swear She Bought Arsenic of Him.

BUT ONE RECOGNIZES HER.

Druggist Says the Alleged Poisoner Purchased Two Ounces on June 1.

WOMEN CROWD COURT ROOM.

Mrs. Edwards, Who Was Seen to Mail a Package; Kittie Dettmar, Who Sold the Candy, and a Dozen Others.

MRS. CORDELLA BOTKIN is on trial in San Francisco for the murder of Mrs. John P. Dunning and her sister, Mrs. Dean, of Dover, Del. A box of candy came to Mrs.
Dunning through the mail, with a note that the candy was for herself and her sister. Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Dean ate of the candy and died the next day of arsenic poisoning. Several other persons who partook of the candy were made very ill.

The handwriting of the note and the address was recognized as similar to that of Mrs. Botkin, of San Francisco, who had accepted the attentions of John P. Dunning while he was the Pacific coast manager of the Associated Press. A druggist who sold Mrs. Botkin arsenic was found by the San Francisco detectives, and a clerk in a candy store also came forward to identify her as a woman who had bought a box of candy from him.

Mrs. Botkin admitted her relations with Dunning, but denied that she had sent the candy.

San Francisco, Dec. 14.—The first witness in the Botkin trial this morning was Thomas Price, a chemist, of this city. He first analyzed eight samples of the choicest candy which was sent to Dover, Del., two pieces of the candy being found small arsenic crystals. In four other pieces he found small quantities of pulverized arsenic. Two pieces of the candy contained no arsenic.

Since the arrival here of Dr. Wolfe, ten of the remaining pieces have been examined by him and Professor Price. From three of these Professor Price said three lumps of hard arsenic were obtained. One of these lumps weighed .46 of a grain; another .23 of a grain, and the third 7.75 grains.

"From two to three grains," said Professor Price, "will kill an ordinary human being. In all I took 18.01 grains from the eight pieces of candy I first examined.
From those candies I analyzed with Professor Wolfe I obtained in the aggregate 8.71 grains.

The witness was asked on cross-examination if lump and pulverized arsenic were the same. He answered that they were, and that to his knowledge crystallized arsenic was never sold in a drug store.

"And when pulverized and moistened in water it assumes an amorphous condition?"
"It does," answered the chemist.

Frank Gray, of the Owl drug store, recognized Mrs. Botkin as the woman to whom he sold two ounces of pulverized arsenic on June 1.

How to the Prosecution.
David Green, another chemist, who kept a drug store in this city last summer, was the next witness. The prosecution had relied on Green's testimony to prove that Mrs. Botkin purchased arsenic from him.

Green swore that he had sold two ounces of arsenic to a woman who resembled the defendant in the latter part of May or the first part of June.

Then a surprise came. Mrs. Botkin stood up, but Green could not identify her as the woman to whom he had sold the arsenic.

Twice the judge slowly put this question: "Mr. Green, take a careful look at Mrs. Botkin. Can you, on your oath, say that you believe her to be the lady who called at your store and purchased arsenic from you?"

Each time the witness answered, "No."
The saleswoman in the candy store where the candy was bought, "believed" that Mrs. Botkin was the purchaser. She recognized the box.

Women Fill the Court-Room.
Never has there been such a fluttering of petticoats in court here before as at this trial. Women of all ages and conditions have been entangled in one way or

Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, on Trial for Murder in San Francisco.
The woman is charged with the killing of Mrs. John P. Dunning and her sister, Mrs. Dean, both of Dover, Del., by means of a box of poisoned candy sent through the mail from San Francisco.

another from the very beginning. To take one in chronological order, Mrs. L. B.
Corbally had unwelcome notoriety thrust upon her because she was an intimate friend of Mrs. Dunning, and because the box of poisoned candy sent to the latter from San Francisco contained the message, "With love to yourself and baby—Mrs. C."

But when Mrs. Botkin was arrested, the unhappy Mrs. Corbally was relegated to the obscurity from which she had never wished to emerge.
The slenderest of acquaintanceships have been sufficient to drag women into the case. Miss Bernice Thompson, a teacher of languages, has taken occasion to lament the misfortune of having lived in the same house with Dunning and Mrs. Botkin.
Mrs. C. W. Carter, on the other hand, gives the prisoner an excellent character.
Mrs. Raoult, formerly Mrs. Botkin's nurse, is believed to have important evidence to offer.

Mrs. Frances C. Edwards, an Oriental-looking beauty, who was formerly intimately associated with Dunning, has been made conspicuous on that account, and also because she was once a candy-maker and was seen to mail a package on the day prior to the dispatch of the poisoned candy. But she declares that her package contained innocent dainties, and that she is the Signal Corps at Manila.

Then there is Mrs. C. W. Carter, who sold the candy that was afterward poisoned; and there is Sylvia Henry, who witnessed the sale; and Mrs. Grace Harris, who marked the handkerchief that went in the famous package; and Alice Bolster, who sold the handkerchief, but cannot tell who bought it.

Mrs. Kittie Preston, in whose house the Botkins lived at one time, comes forward with a story that only kindness of heart deterred her from prosecuting Mrs. Botkin for grand larceny in connection with the disappearance of various articles of Jewelry.

Finally, Mrs. Charlotte Jacobs, a prosperous business woman, is in a "state of mind" because a drug store named "The Candy Store" asked him to address a box of candy for her.

Lay on His Back Waving Clay's Portrait.
Joseph Middleton, an aged English collector of curios, who has a shop at No.
1025 Broadway, was fined $3 in the West Side Police Court yesterday for intoxication. Middleton brought a valuable portrait of Henry Clay for a song. The judge proceeded to celebrate his good luck and was found in the evening on his back in a street, waving a cane with one hand and the portrait with the other.

Barred Children's Bodies Recovered.
The bodies of George and Bath Grawald, seven and five years old, who were burned in the fire at No. 223 Union street, Brooklyn, Tuesday night, were recovered from the ruins yesterday. The bodies were found near together and not far from the bed. The father and mother, with the mutilated child, Gladys, are with friends at No. 246 South street.

Warden Sage, of Sing Sing, received yesterday from Governor Black a pardon for convict Michael O'Donnell, who had served ten years of a sentence of thirty years wrongfully imposed upon him for the crime of burglary, which his brother James confessed on his dying bed to having committed.

The Warden notified O'Donnell that it could leave the prison as soon as he liked.
O'Donnell, however, his convict garb and put on a new suit of civilian clothes.
The State, he then went to the City Court's office, where he received $10 and railroad ticket to New York. None of his friends came to the prison, and after shaking hands with the Warden and some of the keepers he started for New York alone.

DEATH IN BATTERY FLUID
Mrs. Warwick Drank Sulphuric Acid from an Electrical Apparatus Jar.

Helena Warwick died yesterday in Provident Hospital from battery fluid poisoning. She lived with her husband John at No. 18 East Eighth-street.
Mrs. Warwick had been ill, and had electric battery for treatment of the electric fluid was composed sulphuric acid and bichromate of potassium. The elderly woman servant had had Warwick groaning at 10 o'clock. She went to her room and found her dying. She brought the contents of a battery jar, and could not speak, and died an hour later.

Four Women in the Botkin Murder Trial.
Mrs. Frances C. Edwards was seen to mail a package prior to the dispatch of the poisoned candy. She was once intimate with Mrs. Botkin. Kittie Dettmar, who sold the candy that was afterward poisoned, Sylvia Henry, who crossed the sale, and Grace Harris marked the handkerchief that went into the fatal package.

SEE THE SORCERER, SAYS RABBI SEGAL.

"He Fascinates Every One, and Captivated My Daughter."

REINER IS A SPANIARD. IS A UTAH VOLUNTEER.

"The Rabbi Is Not Learned; I Wrote the Sermon He Delivered Last Friday."

Rabbi Joseph Segal, of Newark, expected to be troubled yesterday by the police or the courts. He had entered by force the house of Reiner, in South Broad street, Elizabeth, aided by his three sons and his friend, Feldman, he had carried out of the house his daughter without her consent. She had screamed. Reiner had threatened yesterday. But nothing happened yesterday to disturb the Rabbi.

At his home in Newark yesterday the Rabbi said: "It astonishes you that I could break into a house like a Goth or a Vandal! Well, it astonishes me, too.
But I had the strength of Samson to rescue my daughter. She was in the power of that man. He had hypnotized her. He would have made of her a Roman Catholic like himself."

"You doubt it? See him. He would hypotinize anybody. He came to me two months ago, saying that he knew a man in Switzerland whose name was like mine.
He fascinated me, he said, my sons, my daughter. His wife and my family exchanged visits. My daughter spoke of him only of his learning of his gentleness.
Finally she left her home on Saturday to go to his. I pleaded to vain with him afterward. What would you have done in my place? But you see the result."

The sorcerer is John Maximilian Reiner. He is a Spaniard with the face of Zangwill or Disraeli. He is a graduate of Salamanca, an Orientalist, a theologian, an essayist, a newspaper man. He edited, two years ago, in Elizabeth, the New Jersey Herald, and edited it with more enemies than it ever had buyers. He sat in his study yesterday among strange old books with an air of Dr. Faustus or of Averroes, the alchemist of Grenada. He said:

"I forgive Rabbi Segal for saying that I am a sorcerer. I forgive him even for believing me capable of converting his daughter to Christianity. He is simply ignorant. He is not learned as a Rabbi should be. I wrote the sermon that he delivered last Friday. Here is the typewritten copy that I made of it at the time. I could not make a cat. I am not a missionary either."

"His daughter came to my house as to an asylum. She said that her father had threatened to kill her. There is no other sister. I know that she was interested in the knowledge that I have acquired in years of patient study."

"Miss Segal's brother telegraphed to her on Monday night that her mother had tried to commit suicide. That caused an attack of hysterics. I tried to comfort her. I slept and telegraphed to her brother. Your sister is ill. There is no way of her going to Newark. Doubtless the Rabbi, in the simplicity of his heart, imagined I was deceiving him. That is why he had to break open the door of my house and smash the windows."

CLERICAL MARTYR.
Rev. Charles Frederick Reid so Devoted to His Pulpit Work That It Killed Him.

Devotion to his duties was the cause of the death on Tuesday of the Rev. Charles Frederick Reid at the home of his parents, No. 163 South Ninth street, Williamsburg.
He was only twenty-four years old, and his close attention to a three-months' revival service when he preached every night last summer undermined his health to such an extent that a few days ago he left his field of labor in Pennsylvania to go home to die.

Mr. Reid was born in Brooklyn in 1874.
He was the son of George W. Reid, for a long time the superintendent of the Florence Crittenton Mission. He was to have been ordained a regular preacher during the holidays.

Philos Would Dissolve Their Charity Application has been made to the Supreme Court for the voluntary dissolution of the New York Sandy Hook Pilots' Charitable Fund by Trustees Joseph J. Russell, Archibald R. Heath, Thomas Shields, John R. Smith, and Andrew J. Smith.
Judge Cohen has set down the order to show cause on March 22 next, before John E. Ward, referee.
The assets are $15,300, and there are no liabilities.

Crocker and Sheehan Not Partners.
A rumor reached this city yesterday that Richard Crocker and John T. Sheehan contemplated going into the real estate business at Hudson River. Mr.
Crocker, when seen at the Democratic Club, denied the rumor.

"There is absolutely no truth in the story," he said. "I can't imagine how it got started."

PLOT AGAINST A GALLANT SOLDIER.

Rich Young Cuban Ordered Home from Manila to Save His Property.

Family Enemies Conspiring to Seize the Fine Family Estate in Cuba.

Washington, Dec. 14.—A discharge was cabled to General O'Leary at Manila to-day in behalf of Corporal Evaristo de Montalvo, Batter B, First Utah Volunteer Artillery.
Montalvo is privileged to come to New York at Government expense.

The netos was taken at the instance of the young soldier's friends in this country and in Cuba, of which island he is a native. He is a son of a wealthy sugar planter, who has extensive property near Manifuegos. The establishment of peace has made it possible for work on the plantation to be resumed, and the owner recently took steps to begin.

Enemies of the family have sought to circumvent the elder Montalvo. A plot has been laid to deprive father and son of their property. The personal presence of the young man at Manifuegos within the next few months is imperative if the property is to be preserved from the conspirators.
The situation was described to the War Department to-day and the obligation of ordering the young volunteer's discharge was promptly sent.

The soldier, who is rich in his own right, was in a Western city when war was declared, and immediately enlisted in the most available command, which chanced to be the Utah artillery. Inquiry developed the fact that Corporal Montalvo has rendered splendid service, has been in five battles, including the capture of Manila, and is at present the interpreter in General O'Leary's office.
